Introduction

Hey there!

I'm Christopher Williams, the guy behind www.pickupanywomen.com.

I'm from Montreal, Canada. A beautiful city where there are plenty of beautiful women from many different cultures.

Anyhow...

I've written this short instant attraction report which is all about helping you attract more women, more easily towards you instantantly . This is something I've been using for a very long time and that I still use today and bring me great success with women...

This report will give you the overview of how it works. No need to write a 20 page report for you to understand ;)

Hope you enjoy it!

Christopher Williams.

Ok guys,

First thing first, what I'm about to share with you is something VERY easy to implement, yet very powerful.

Used properly, you can use that as often as you want to get women paying attention to you.

I used to have a 15 page report about the instant attraction report, but it was too much fluff and just too damn complicated for what it was.

I decided to dump that report and start it over and make it a 2 or 3 page report..

The result..

Much simpler to get my point across ;)

Meaning we're going to get to the meat right away.

BUT do not take this little report lightly because it has few pages.

So what I'm about to share right here, is something I've been using for a very long time. Fact is I still use it today and it's been kind of a "secret" weapon I've been using all the time to boost my sex appeal and draw attention to me!

It works 100% of the time no doubt about it and It does put the focus on you, it's like compelling a woman to take notice of you.

However it won't make them attracted to you based on that...

That is something that you will have to earn and it will only work with women you meet on a regular basis, (preferably more than twice minimum) but because you draw their attention on you, you can use that to your advantage (as a lead in) to establish yourself as a guy they would want to be with.

So what is that so special secret?

Well it may be something that you do already but you are not aware, but now you'll have the ability to do it on purpose..

You simply have to constantly change your appearance in a shocking way that doesn't change you but make people notice you.

Now don't laugh..

Now that may look silly, but this is something very powerful that really does the trick and if you start paying attention, you'll notice that women do notice those changes.

and it works 100% of the time because people just CAN'T look when something is different, it's like me telling you to not think about the color blue... You probably already did before I even mentioned it.

There's no way you can't think about it.

Now you can do the same thing with women simply by going through a simple shocking make over.

It can be from you not wearing glasses to now wearing glasses. It could be you rocking a mustache for the first time or shaving it all off or a brand new haircut or letting you beard grow when you never did,

What matters is that you're willing to make a change on anything that people are used to see about you..

If you've got long hair, then you can cut them short..

And from there people will comment, some will love and some will hate.

That's fine, the goal is not and should be careless about if they love it or not.

Your only job is to bring attention on you.

Once that is done.. you can seize that opportunity to take it wherever you want.

To give you one example, when I was around 20 years old, I went to school with a "playboy" bunny.. carved in my head.

It was bold, it was a statement and thought it looked nice and everybody's attention was on me for couple of days

(I even had a girl grill me telling me how arrogant and who I thought I was to do such thing...but we will keep that for another time in the email newsletter)

All that attention I brought upon myself allowed me to use that as an advantage over other guys to sell my salad to some girls...and if memory serves me well, that alone (the playboy bunny) introduced me to two girls which I later dated ;)

Now don't make it complicated for you guys.. start lightly and just start paying attention to the comments you receive because you've made a noticeable change.

Until you get better at noticing the comments and attention you receive because you've made some easy changes.

And from there you can use other skills which we will talk about inside the email newsletter!
